The APC met with Louis Hunt and some of his staff and, of course, they were totally on top of things. They don't regard any problems, if there are any, with athletes taking too many off-campus courses as amenable to the blunt instrument of university-wide courses-in-residence requirements but as more of an advising problem (as we mostly thought all along).

We went over the 25% plus 30-out-of-45 requirement (plus whatever various majors have in place) and their thought was, in sum, "no problem". But, they are going to run some numbers for us, like how many students take x% of courses not here (special cases like study abroad to be bracketed) and look at that number to see if certain categories of students are concentrated in the larger percentages. It was also noted that most of the non-NCSU courses would be concentrated in the general ed. area, dominated, of course, by transfer students.

The orthogonal issue of quality/equivalence control of transferred courses was briefly broached and the APC thought that the Division of Enrollment Management and Services could implement a process to systematically review transfer course articulations.
