

Herle McGowan
Assistant Professor
Statistics
College of Sciences

I have been a faculty member in the Department of Statistics for nearly 10 years. In addition to teaching, advising, and serving on committees within my own department, I have served on several college and university committees. I chaired both the Council on Undergraduate Education and the General Education Diversity Task Force. I also serve on the COS Faculty Advisory Council and the Advisory Board for the Th!nk Quality Enhancement Program.

I strongly believe in the process of shared governance. I also believe that a diversity of perspectives is necessary for this process to be successful. One of my strengths is understanding and representing perspectives that are different from my own--a skill that was sharpened when I participated in the most recent BRIDGES Academic Leadership Program. I welcome the opportunity to use the skills I have honed through BRIDGES and my previous service to represent faculty of all ranks and disciplines in the College of Sciences as a member of the Faculty Senate.
