

Megan Jacob
Associate Professor
Clinical Microbiology
Director of Diagnostic Laboratories
College of Veterinary Medicine

I am an Associate Professor of Clinical Microbiology and Director of Diagnostic Laboratories for the NC State Veterinary Hospital. As a CVM faculty member, I participate in clinical service, teach in the first and fourth year curriculum, and have a research program focused on antimicrobial resistance. I am a native of Wyoming, but have come to love the North Carolina weather, and more importantly NC State; I look forward to representing and serving all faculty as part of the senate.