

Matt Stallmann
Professor and Assistant Director of Graduate Programs
Department of Computer Science
College of Engineering

Dr. Matt Stallmann is Professor and Assistant Director of Graduate Programs in the Computer Science Department. He is currently co-chair of the department's Strategic Planning Committee and NCSU representative to AccessComputing, an NSF-funded project to increase the participation of people with disabilities in computing fields. During more than 30 years at NCSU, Dr. Stallmann has served in a variety of leadership roles, chairing curriculum committees at both undergraduate and graduate levels, as well as committees to develop and provide staff for the department's computing resources. He served four times as Accreditation Coordinator for ABET/CAC. Throughout his career, Dr. Stallmann has cherished his role as an official or unofficial mentor for many students and junior colleagues.